INDIANA REPRESENTED AS WELL AS IOWA AND QUAY'S STATE.

AN ANTI-M'KIN LEY CONFAB

VOL. LXIII.-NO. 216.

Platt Was There-Gen, Harrison Wasn't-Clarkson Brought the Allison Boom-Says the Obto Major Will Re 100 Votes

Short of Nomination on the First Ballot. The Hon. James S. Clarkson, Republican National Committeeman for Iowa and chief our tedian of the Allison boom, arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night, after his 10,-000-mile trip through the South, Southwest, far West, Northwest, and the silver States, all in the interest of Senator Allison. Gen Clarkson did not spend much time over his dinner, but had a preliminary conference with Mr. Platt in the Tioga chieftain's apartmenta, Immediately after this Gen. Clarkson and Mr. Platt adjourned to a conference room not far from Mr. Platt's apartments, and they were there joined by the Hon. Sam Fessenden, Re publican National Committeeman from Conpecticut, and a contingent of Presidential boomers from Washington, which included friends of Speaker Reed, Senator Quay, and, it may not be uninteresting to add, representatives of Indiana Republican politics. Ex-President Harrison was not at the hotel at the time. At this conference the claims of the Hon. Marcus Ashtabula Hanna in the interest of ex-Gov. McKinley were discussed and dis-

It was conceded that the news from New Hampshire. Senator Chandler's balliwick. was not altogether pleasing, and there was ome expression to the effect that Senator Chandler had not been altogether adroit in firing those hand grenades at the methods of the McKinley managers. Somehow the opinion gained ground that Senator Chandler when he did this was either without his accustomed foresight in political matters or that his friendship for Speaker Reed was little more than skin deep. In any event, Sen-Chandler's comments were considered by to have come at a most unfortunate some to have come at a most unfortunate time.

It was admitted that McKinley sentiment had sprung up in spots where it was unexpected. The Indiana Republicans present could scarcely account for the sway that McKinley had gained in the Hoosier State. It was accepted, though, that John K. Gowdy, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Indiana had for several months been dickering with Mr. McKinley's friends in Ohio, and that all this was unknown to Gen. Harrison when he issued his letter declining to allow his name to be used at the St. Louis Convention. The Washingtonians brought reports to the effect that there is a strong protection sentiment in the Southern States, and that Major McKinley to a large extent was reaping the benefit of this sentiment for the trason that his name is connected with the tariff bill with which Senator Allison and Senator Aldrich and Speaker Reed had, very much to do—nore, it was said, than the Ohio Major. However this may be, the reports wers to the effect that there is a strong protection sentiment observed in the South, Southwest, West, and Northwest, and that it is very plain to be seen that the McKinley managers proposed to push their favorits to the front at St. Louis on the battle lines of protection, ignoring as much as possible the money question. The Hon San Fessenden has observed a McKinley sentiment in Connecticut, but general opinion was that the Republicans of the Eastern States wish to avoid as much as possible a campaign which would reopen the tariff light on an extreme basis.

Gen. Clarkson said: "I have made a very would as much as possible a campaign which would reopen the tariff fight on an extreme basis.

Gen. Clarkson said: "I have made a very extensive trip, and I have been very careful in my observations. I firmly believe that the claims of ex-Gov. McKinley's friends have been very much exaggerated. I do not believe tending to the claims of ex-Gov. McKinley's friends have been very much exaggerated. I do not believe to-night, after giving Major McKinley every doubtful vote, that he will come within 100 votes of being nominated at St. Louis on the first ballot, and, of course, if he is not nominated at all. Allowing all of the claims of Major McKinley's friends to be true. I cannot for the life of me, according to my computation, see how Mr. McKinley will have on the first ballot more than 335 votes, or 357 at the utmost. As there are 909 delegates to the Convention, it will require 455 votes on the first ballot to nominate him. This ante-Convention campaign reminds me to a great extent of the campaign in 1888."

Gen. Clarkson recalled that in 1888 Senator John Sherman of Ohio was the prime favorite. There were fourteen favorite sons voted for on the first bellot, as follows: Alger, 84; Depsw. 90; Gresham. 107; Haswley, 13; Phelus. 25; Lincoln. 3; Fitler. 24; Sherman. 329; Allison. 72; Harrison. 85; Ingalls, 28; Rusk. 25; Blaine, 35; McKinley. 2.

"You will observe," continued Gen. Clarkson, "that Sherman on that vote received 329, Blaine. 35: McKniev. 2.

"You will observe," continued Gen. Clarkson, "that Sherman on that vote received 329, but he falled of a nomination. Afterward the friends of the thirteen other favorite sons got to work and divided his votes and so split his boom, until at the end Harrison was nominated. There were fourteen favorite sons voted for in that Convention, while at St. Louis there will be only six or eight, and this to my mind makes the field very much stronger against McKinley than it was against Sherman in 1888. According to the information I received on my crip in the far West, the majority of the delegates west of the Missouri River will go to St. Louis not committed to any candidate, and, from what I learn, the delegates from Montana, idaho, Utah, Nevada, and Colorado will go there demanding that a candidate favorable to free silver shall be nominated. But, of course, any such proposition will be overwhelmingly defeated, and these delegates will then fall into line with the platform of the National Convention, which will not be for free silver by any means. Contrary to all reports, the delegates from these five States, after their defeat in their demands for free silver, will not boit the Convention. I am fully convinced of that."

Chairman Charles W. Hackett of the Republican State Committee has chauged his mind about taking a vacation. He will remain at the Fifth Avenue Hotel as the chief executive of the Morton boom. From this time on, it was said, the head centre of the anti-Xo-Kinley sentiment will be here in New York city. The Republicans in this region do not hesitate to say that Major McKinley's nomination at St. Louis would create unheard-of antagonisms in their party, that it would solit it wide open, and that even if McKinley did pull through, his Administration, as dominated by his friends, would in 1800 result in the return of the Democracy to control.

COFFIN AND PORTER DON'T SPEAK. The Governor Decides that He Won't Go on McKinley Dinner,

HARTFORD, April 2.-A question of veracity has made enemies of two well-known Connectiout politicians. This question is, "Did or did not Gov. O. Vincent Coffin accept the invitation of the McKinley Club of this city to attend its banquet next week?"

Gov. Coffin says he did not accept, and John Addison Porter, the founder of the club, and McKinley's chief lieutenant in this State, says he did, and now the two do not speak as they pass. Gov. Griggs of New Jersey is to be the guest of the McKinley Club, accompanied by some members of his staff. Gov. Coffin received a verbal invitation from Mr. Porter, and jotted down the date in his note book.

Subsequently he received an invitation to attend a G. A. R. colebration in Waterbury and accepted it, and he will be in Waterbury with his staff on the night of the McKinley Club banquet. Mr. Porter now accuses Gov. Coffin of dupilcity and lashes the Chief Executive of the State in a long article of his paper, the Post, this afternoon, in which he says:

"I am proud to class myself among those who regard that a man's word should always be as good as his bond, whether in politics, business, or social affairs, and that an engagement once made should be sacredly kept. It did not occur to me to make an exception in the case of our Chief Executive. Indeed, in a matter of this or any other kind, I believe my word will stand against his."

The extrangement between these two is all the more lamentable as Mr. Porter, who was a cansome members of his staff. Gov. Coffin reargainst his.

The estrangement between these two is all the more lamentable as Mr. Porter, who was a candidate for Governor at the last Convention, said that he elected Gov. Coffin by withdrawing in his favor. Mr. Porter is an avowed candidate for Governor this year and expected to receive Gov. Coffin's support. This he is not likely to receive now.

Straight Republican Ticket Probable in

RALBIGH, April 2. Senator Marion Butler's letter announcing that there can be no fuelon by the Populists with Republicans on the electoral ticket, and none on the State unless the Republicans concede to the Populists the nomination of Governor and a member of the Legislature in each county, has sured a political sensation. Republican State Chairman Hoiton says it forces the Republicans to sominate a straight ticket.

LIPPITT BY 11,978 PLURALITY. No Such Plurality Mas Occurred in Bhode Island Since 1862,

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 2.- The revised returns of the State election show that Lippitt, Rep., was elected Governor by 11,278 plurality. This is the largest plurality given to a Gubernaorial candidate in this State since 1862, at which time Sprague was elected without opposition. The vote follows: Lippitt, Republican, 28,448; Littlefield, Democrat, 17,170; Peabody, Prohibition, 3,032; Burlingame, Peoples, 718; Thienert, Socialist, 1,224. Bennett, Republican, was elected Secretary of State by 12,274 piurality. Dubois, for Attorney-General, ran slightly behind his

CARLISLE TALK AGAIN.

Reported in Washington that He Will An-nounce His Candidacy Before Long. WASHINGTON, April 2.—The report is revived n Washington that Secretary Carlisle will in a few days announce his candidacy for the Presidential nomination by means of a letter to one of the Kentucky members of Congress. It is said that arrangements have already been per-fected for securing the solid Kentucky delegation to the Chicago Convention. Nobody has been found, however, to verify the rumor.

MODEST SENATOR MILIS.

He Declines to Name the Free Cuba Can-didate for President,

WASHINGTON, April 2 .- All of the Demoratic leaders in the House and Senate think that McKinley will be nominated by the Republicans for the Presidency, and they are quietly looking about for the man to defeat im. Some of the wisest and most cautious members of the party concede that if will be difficult to get any one to accept the Democratic nomination, because the race appears to be so one-sided at this juncture. Senator Mills, while discussing the subject to-day, expressed the opinion that the Democrats have a hance to win if they will select a man in whom the people have confidence, and one who will make free Cuba the principal issue of the campaign. Mr. Mills contends that the great mass of the American people are thoroughly roused over the Cuban question, and that they would rush to the support of the man who would come out boldly and declare that the cruelty now going on in Cuba shall stop and the people of that island shall be allowed to establish a free government of their own. Such a man, he believed, would sweep the country, notwithstanding the apparently overwhelming sentiment in behalf of McKinley. When Senator Mills was asked to suggest the name of the man who would measure up to his Cuban standard, he modestly declined. whom the people have confidence, and one who

MR. LELASD NOT A CANDIDATE.

He Says Mr. Hanna Should Be Chairman of the Republican National Committee. TOPERA, Kan., April 2.-Cyrus Leland, Republican National Committeeman for Kansas, said resterday that Gov. McKinley would be the only man considered for the Presidency by the National Convention, and that he would be the National Convention, and that he would be nominated by acclamation. Concerning the National Chairmanship, Mr. Leland said: "Gov. NcKinley does not want me for the Chairmasship, and I am not seeking the place. The man for the place is Mr. Hanna of Ohio, Mr. Hanna is McKinley's friend, and McKinley would naturally pick him for the Chairmanship. He is a man who gets along without friction and never goes hunting ducks with a brass band."

GEN. HARRISON IN SECLUSION. Many People Call on Him at His Hotel, but

He Receives Only Gen. Tracy. Gen. Harrison is living quietly at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the life of a private citizen he terms it. He will not talk of politics, nor will he talk of his marriage that is to take place on next Monday. The time of the ceremony has not yet been given out. In fact, it is the intention of the General to keep the hour a secret, as the wedding is to be extremely quiet, and he does not want to have a crowd about the church. Gen. Harrison remained in the hotel all yesterday morning. A large number of people sent terday morning. A large number of people sent their cards to him, but Gen. Tracy, who was his Secretary of the Navy, was the only one he received. Gen. Tracy is to be his best man. Gen. Harrison lunched with his fiancee. Mrs. Dimmick, and dined at the hotel. The evening he spent with his fature bride.

Except his son-in-law, Mr. McKee, no member of his family are yet in town. It is said that Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Harrison will arrive in New York next Sunday. Mrs. McKee, it is said, will not come to New York for the wedding.

ASTOUNDED AT CHANDLER.

REED MEN SUSPECT HIM OF TRY-ING TO SELL OUT THE MAINE MAN.

They Are Inclined to Belleve that He Is Carrying Out a Deliberate Plan to Break Down Reed's New England Support-Senator Lodge Is Greatly Disgusted.

WASHINGTON, April 2 .- Speaker Reed's riends in Washington are absolutely astounded at the conduct of Senator Chandler, and they are somewhat disposed to think that he is carrying out a deliberate plan to break down the solidity of Reed's New England support and injure his candidacy in the East gener ally. Either this, they say, or the New Hamp-shire Senator has utterly lost the political skill and cunning with which he has been credited so long. The Speaker himself and Senator Lodge and Joe Manley, and indeed all the friends of Reed, Allison, Morton, and other anti-McKinley candidates, expressed the opin ion to-day that in signing his name to a statement that Mr. Reed is not a gold man, but a bimetallist, the erratic Mr. Chandler has done the cause of the Maine candidate more harm than anything that could possibly have happened to it at this time, not excepting even his other disastrous mistake of attacking the honesty of the McKinley managers and the purity of their campaign.

The Reed men are utterly at a loss to account for the actions of Mr. Chandler, and the pubilcation of his letter addressed to Senator Lodge explaining how he lost control of the New Hampshire Convention, of which he was Chairman, and why he made a cowardly surrender to the McKinley element, they can account for only upon the ground that Mr. Chandler is plotting for Mr. Reed's defeat. An interesting fact in connection with Mr. Chandler's conduct is that Senator Lodge has not received the letter which Mr. Chandler publishes as having been sent to him on March 31, the day the New Hampshire Convention met. If he had received it, however, Mr. Lodge would have taken very great pains to see that it did not reach the public. Senator Lodge is the author of the Massachusetts platform declaring for the gold standard, and the Convention that adopted it also formally launched the Reed Presidential boom and gave it its first solid backing. For Mr. Chandler to load down this New England endersement with a half Reed, half McKinley platform, and a semi-official announcement that Mr. Reed repudiates Mr. Lodge's financial plank, and prefers to be known as an anti-gold candidate, is more than the Massachusetts Senator could bear, and he made no effort to conceal his disgust and disappointment. only upon the ground that Mr. Chandler is Massachusetts Senator could bear, and he mane no effort to conceal his disgust and disappoint ment.

Mr. Reed, for obvious reasons, would not comment to-day upon the action of the New Hampshire Convention and its Chairman, Mr. Chaudler, but it is very well known that he holds opinions on the subject that it would not be gratifying to Mr. Chandler to ree in print. Indeed, it is no secret that Mr. Reed and all his friends in Washington regard Mr. Chandler and his utterances, but are at a loss for a means to suppress him. These men thought Mr. Chandler had done his worst when he made what they regard as an ill-advised and uncalled for attack upon the methods of Mc. Kinley's managers, and now they seriously fear that he has made ducks and drakes of Mr. Reed's entire New England campaign, which, of course, is intended to be the basis and groundwork of his candidacy.

Joe Manley and Representative Aldrich of lilinois remained on deck in the room of the Committee on Accounts all day and bravely faced the music of the references, good natured and otherwise, to Senator Chandler's management of the Reed campaign in New England, but declined to make any public statement in reply. It was plain to see, however, that they actions and utterances that they do not know what stens to take to counteract it.

Massachusetts Delegater "Recommended" to Vote for the Maine Man.

Holyoke, Mass., April 2.—The Republican Convention of the First Congress district, held here to-day, elected Parley A. Russell of Great Barrington and William Whiting of Holyoke delegates to the St. Louis Convention, and George K. Haird of Lee and Franklin T. Snow of Greenfield atternates. An attempt to postpone a resolution instructing the delegates for Reed and endorsing sound money was defeated, 49 to 45. The resolution by a vote of 64 to 35 was then amended by substituting the word "Recommend" for "Instruct."

There was a strong McKinley sentiment in the Convention.

CITY GOLD THREES WON'T SELL. Have Reform, Hayscedery, and the Tunnel Phantom Hurt Our Credit?

Comptroller Fitch opened bids yesterday for $4,300,614.99 three per cent. gold bonds and tock of the city of New York. He received proosals for only $175,000. Of this $30,000 was bid in at par, and the premiums on the renainder ranged from 100.35 to 111.25.

The result of this bond sale was most sur rising, not to say disappointing, to the Comptroller. Not in ten years has such a thing happened to the bonds of New York city. He accounts for it by the fact that $100,000,000 has just been lent to the national Government on better terms, but others give other causes. The debt of the city is gradually approaching the ten per cent. limit, and enormous expenditures are in sight. The expenditure of some $20,000. 000 has been authorized by the present Republican Legislature. The rapid transit $55,000,000 impends. The State is drawing on $55.000,000 impends. The State is drawing on the city for constantly increasing amounts, One-third of the excise money is to go to the State. Again, in one year under the reform administration the running extenses of the city alone increased $5,000,000. All these things are tending to make investors a bit chary of New York stock and bonds. The Comptroller and yesterday that he feared that the rate of interest would have to be put up to 314 per cent, to compete with the Government bonds, that net 315 per cent. He did not think that the Greater New York bill had affected the sale.

HEAVY DRIFTS OF SNOW. Severe Storm in Obto and Michigan - Rail-

In many places there are snow drifts ten feet deep. Bangor and Benton Harbor had gales, with a drop in the thermometer of 30° in welve hours.

At Ishpeming the South Shore road abandoned its freight trains and will not attempt to run them until the storm subsides. The greatest drop in temperature was at Schoolcraft, where in fifteen hours the mercury fell sixty degrees.

STRIKE AT SIEGEL-COOPER'S.

Practically All Workmen Go Out-Police Reserves Called Out on a False Alarm, The general strike ordered on Wednesday afternoon on the Siegel-Cooper building, Eighteenth street and Sixth avenue, went into effect yesterday morning. The strike was against the employment of non-union cornice makers and steam fitters and helpers by a

Jersey City firm. Between three and four hundred men ouit work, including housesmiths, steam fitters and helpers, plumbers, gasfitters, electrical workers, carpenters belonging to the United Order of Carpenters and the Progressive Carpenters' Union, hod-holsting engineers, and elevator

Union, hod-holsting engineers, and elevator constructors. The building is about three-fourths finished. The cornice makers say they were receiving from $1.50 to $1.75 a day, and working nine hours aday, while the union wages are from $3 to $3.50 a day for eight hours work.

As there was considerable excitement when the men were leaving work, Superintendent Allen of the building became a little scared and notified the Police Department. Thirty policemen under Sergeant Daly soon appeared, evidently under the impression that a riot was in progress, and were much disgusted to find the place quieter than when the work was going on, the strikers having gathered up their tools and left. Only the waking delegates were around. A little later a number of police reserves arrived from Harlem prepared for an encounter with a mob. The police looked through the building and then went away, one or two being left to guard the premises.

The waking delegates had a talk with Contractor Milliken and Superintendent Allen of the building. The delegates said that the men would not return to work until the non-union men had been discharged and the work that they had done was taken down, to be done over again by union men.

PEN-AND-INK COUNTERFEITS.

The Cashler of the Sub-Treasury Says They're the Most Dangerous Kind. "I hope that the agents have got the right fellow in that man Ninger," M. L. Muhleman, Deputy Assistant Treasurer of the United States and cashier at the Sub-Treasury, said yesterday. He referred to the arrest of the alleged forger of the dangerous pen-and-ink counterfeits of notes of large denomination.

"That fellow has been the cause of several cases of heart failure among the boys in the Sub-Treasury. continued Mr. Muhleman. "His counterfeits were the most dangerous that we ever had, o handle. They would get through the banks and come to us. It was by the quality of the paper that they were usually discovered. One of the boys would be handling a lot of bills, when all at once he would jump and cry out as though he had felt an electric shock. The fact was that he had felt that peculiar quality of paper which belonged to these pen-and-ink counterfeits. It is so different from the real thing that the delicate touch acquired by long practice had revealed it to him. I tell you some of the boys nearly fell in a fit when they realized by what a narrow squeeze they had saved themselves from losing $50 or $100 from their salaries." He referred to the arrest of the alleged forger and the Bartender Is Locked Up James Farrell of 424 Grove street, Jersey lity, went into Patrick Kelly's saloon at 430 Grove street at about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. He called for whiskey with soda. James Gee, the bartender, put out a bottle of whiskey and a soda water bottle containing a colorless liquid supposed to be soda. Farrell drank the whiskey without any sign of emotion, but when he took a swallow from the soda water bottle he began to dance around and yell for ice water. He had swallowed a dose of muriatic acid, and his mouth, tongue, and throat were badly burned. He was hurried away to the City Hospital. It was thought at first that he would die, but antidotes and emetics were administered promptly, and last night it was thought that there was a chance for his recovery.

IT WAS HARVARD AND YALE OVER AGAIN AT CAMBRIDGE.

Dr. Sargent's Team of Combetdee Glets Bush Br. Anderson's Team of New Haven Girls-Couldn'tAgree A bout the Rules, and Hate Polling and Sharp Talk Resulted.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 9 - Fourteen voung vomen, representing some of the best known In many places the snow drifts reached a height families in Cambridge and in New Haven, had a hairpulling contest while playing a basketball game at Dr. Sargent's gymnasium, on Church street, Cambridge, this afternoon. The trouble arose over a disagreement as to the rules, and the crowd of spectators, who had gathered to witness the sport, was shocked to see the proficiency in slugging which was suddenly developed. "Let go my hair, "There! take that, you mean thing." "Biting and scratching aren't allowed." "I'll fix "Biting you," were some of the expressions that were used, as anger flashed from the girls' eyes. The row occurred in the first half of the game. The second half was tame and spiritless.

The New Haven team was made up of girls from the physical training school of Dr. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium. The Cambridge team was composed of seven girls from a similar school, conducted by Dr. D. A. Sargent. The Cambridge team won by a score of 21 to 2.

About two weeks ago Dr. Sargent's girls sent a challenge to New Haven, which was accepted immediately. No arrangements were made about rules, and when W. H. Peck of the Yale basketball team, and E.B. Buckman, Dr. Anderson's assistant, came up with the New Haven girls this morning to see Dr. Sargent, they found that they could not agree on rules. For about two hours the three men discussed the two sets of rules. Dr. Sargent supported a modified set of rules such as are used by the different teams of girls in boats. He held that the rules governing the game played by men, commonly called the "Y. M. C. A. rules," were not fit to govern a game between women. The Yale men, on the other hand, supported the regular men's rules, and would not back down, Finally Dr. Sargent agreed that each side should use its own rules in the game, but said that he must make an announcement of the fact at the beginning of the game.

Just as the game was about to begin Dr. Sargent made a short speech, in which he mentioned the disagreement in regard to rules. He said that he did not think the men's rules were fit for ladies, and therefore his supplis would use the modified rules.

The chief difference in the rules. Dr. Sargent explained, was that the men's rules allowed a of rules such as are used by the differ-

The chief difference in the rules. Dr. Sargent explained, was that the men's rules allowed a person to knock the ball out of a player's hands. The medified rules allowed a fair throw and regarded the body as safe from touch until the ball had been thrown.

When the game began it was apparent that it was was to be a hard contest. The girls' spirits were up. It was as though Yale and Harvard were represented.

The play became rough almost immediately, It was apparent that ir. Sargent had predicted correctly. The New Hayen girls scrambled for the ball, pushed and tore in a hard way. The Cambridge girls tried to be calm, but had to be rough to protect themselves. There was a large amount of holding and many fouls were claimed against both teams. The difference in the style of play was clear. The Cambridge girls played for the bail. The New Hayen girls directed their attempts at the players.

As a result of fifteen minutes' play the Cambridge girls had five points to their credit, while the New Haven girls had falled to score. The pupils of Dr. Sargent had beaten those of Dr. pupils of Dr. Sargent had beaten those of Dr. Anderson at their own game.

At the end of the haif both sides agreed that it had been rough and unladylike, and that to play another such balf would be unseemly. Finally it was decided to play the second haif according to Dr. Sargent's modified rules.

The Anderson girls had never played under these rules, so this part of the game was rather tame. The team play of the Sargent girls now counted, and they could put the ball wherever they pleased.

Score after score was made by them until their total was 21, while the Anderson girls were able by the hardest kind of work to get only two points.

The game as played in the second haif was quiet, with no unpleasant features, and fully justified the predictions made by Dr. Sargent.
